When Inspector McLaughlin entered the room, he was surprised to find that the man on the bed was not the man he had been told of.

"What age were you when you were taken to the police force?" "Twenty-one years old."

"When did you join the force?" "On November 25, 1888."

"How much money did you have when you joined the force?" "Six hundred dollars."

"Six hundred dollars? I had three hundred dollars in Washington market for four years, and I saved $400."

"I sold my truck and horse for $1,500. I gave the money to my mother to keep for me. She gave it to me before she died on September 12, 1870. I gave the money to my mother to keep for me."

"Then you had no confidence in your mother, then?" "No, your mother was a good woman, but she was not a good mother."

"No sir, I thought they could take better care of it than I could," was the reply.

"You were a business man and must have been a saving man to accumulate such a sum of money in four years. Was your sweetheart in the trucking business?"

"The witness flared up at this question and appealed to the senators. He said that it was an unnatural and unnecessary question. Mr. Leach told Mr. Coffey to change the question and ask in what business the young lady was engaged."

"In the candy business," was the reply.

"Mr. Coffey then asked him if he ever got back the $6,000 from his wife, but the inspector finally said that his wife paid $7,000 on a house in 1886 but he did not take this as a payment to him of the $6,000."

"Mr. Coffey went on putting the same question repeatedly."

"Did you ever get back that $6,000?" "Finally he said, 'I have received several moneys from my wife but as to that original amount I cannot say I ever got it.'"

"Were you ever engaged in any business since you joined the force?"

"Yes, in 1881 I invested $1,750 in a patent, switch. My brother-in-law, Fredrick Hill, bought the switch. The witness was in Chicago and known as the Jeffrey Clark switch company."

"The notes were met and I made about $2,000 to $4,000 out of it. My brother sold the royalty to several manufacturers and railroad companies."

"Name some of the companies?" "The Ajax Forge company, the Adams Union Iron and Steel company, all of Chicago; the Missouri Pacific, and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy."

"Were you ever in Chicago?" "Never in my life."

"By whom were the notes made?" "By my brother, Fredrick Hill."

"Was your name on them?" "No."

"In recess was then taken."

The line followed by Mr. Coffey after recess was an endeavor to ascertain the value of property now owned by Inspector McLaughlin.

"The witness said that in 1884 the profits from the patent right were larger than in the previous year. He gave the money to his wife."

"We bought a house in my wife's name at 448 W. Second street. The house cost $20,000 and paid $7,000 on it."

"Why, if, as you say, your wife had about $40,000 living did you have a mortgage of $10,000 on the property?"

"Because in the business she sold the property it was much better to have a mortgage on it."

"Mr. Coffey then asked a number of questions as to the business his wife was engaged in after she got this money."

"I refuse to answer until I see my counsel," replied the witness.

"Would it tend to incriminate or degrade your wife?"

"No."

"Mr. Coffey then got the witness to tell what property his wife and he owned or held under purchase contract. Mr. Coffey placed the speculative value of all the property at $215,000 and the equity at $55,000. The witness said that these parcels he figured at $24,750."

"Witness stated that he had been offered recently profits on the several properties amounting to $50,000, that being the actual value of his equity $102,500."

"Mr. Coffey figured up the amount of salary which McLaughlin had since he was appointed sergeant in July 1884, and placed it at $25,000."

"Now, inspector, where did you get that $25,000? Did you get it from salary earned and the money you invested?"

"My wife made a lot of money in her business."

"What business?"

"I refuse to say."

"Well, did you make any money elsewhere?"

"Yes, I have been buying and selling real estate and it is a matter of record that I made $10,000 on a deal of real estate on Washington street."

"Have you also been lucky enough to make money on other deals. I am also interested with the law, my wife, in the Tenderfoot mine, at Webb City, Mo."

"How many detectives are under your command?"

"Thirty-five detective sergeants and thirty detectives."

"What precinct did you first have charge of?"

"The First precinct."

"And Burns, your wardman, leveled blackmail on builders and other people while you were in charge?"

"I never knew of it. I always knew Burns to be a conscientious and brave man."

He asked me for it and I brought it to him. About six or twelve months afterwards I got $2,000 back as he had invested it very successfully for me. He made one month some $2,000 to $2,500."

"The witness then told a long story as to how he came to acquire the money. He said that he was through catching a man who wrote threatening letters. Mr. Coffey wrote threatening letters. Mr. Coffey wrote threatening letters. Mr. Coffey wrote threatening letters."

"Then Mr. Coffey, he said, offered to buy the truck for him and did not want to accept any more, but he refused. He put up $10,000 with the result that the amount was increased to $25,000."

TARIFF WAR WITH EUROPE.

Signs Multiply to Show That the United States are on the Verge of One.

THE FRENCH RESTRICTIONS DEVELOPMENT OF THE AGRARIAN POLICY.

Chinese Students in America—Sketch of Their Career After Their Return to China—They Displayed Distinguished Bravery and Gallantry at the Battle of the Yalu—Special Decorations—A Card From Foster About His Mission.

Washington, Dec. 29.—Signs multiply to show that the United States are on the verge of a great tariff war with all Europe. France now appears to be following in the lead of Germany in placing restrictions and obstacles in the way of importation of American food products, and as in the case of Germany, this is a development of the agrarian policy and is intended to help the French farmer, although calculated to put forward as a measure in the interest of public health. In a report to the state department, Agent Angel informed the department of a movement on foot by the agriculturists of the department of the North to establish a certain reform in reference to duties on agricultural products and other matters. The minister of agriculture has been memorialized upon the subject by a delegation. The memorial complains of the importation of American beef and prays that the agrarian laws upon animals may be rigidly enforced, that in cases where the sanitary officials detect a contagious disease in cattle, such cattle may be refused entry, or at least shall be subjected to a quarantine inspection in the special lazarettes established at the various ports of entry. They insist upon the danger caused by the establishment of slaughter houses in maritime ports, which they say have the effect of spreading disease. They pray for an increase of 7 francs in the duty on sugars imported from other than European countries and for a bounty on French colonial sugars.

Some of the advance figures relative to the extent of the imports into the United States coming into Spanish bottoms have been already furnished to the department of state and they show that the department has unexpected powerful weapons in a retaliatory war, if it comes to the point. Since Sept. 1 the value of such goods entered at the Atlantic ports was a little over four and a half million dollars, or at the rate of eighteen million dollars per annum, the commerce too, to be sacrificed by Spain without great provocation.

CHINESE STUDENTS. Destiny of Some Who Attended School in America.

Washington, Dec. 29.—United States Minister Denby has sent to the state department an interesting sketch of the history of a number of Chinese students who were educated in the United States and afterwards returned to China. Thirty of these boys were sent to this country in 1872 and others were sent afterwards. They were put in charge of Yang Wing, a graduate of Yale. Charges were made that the boys were lost, but the charges were not sustained. In 1888 they were recalled, and unfortunately for China, their system of education was abandoned. The legation at Peking and the American consuls of Peking have watched with interest their careers since their return. A previous dispatch reported the gallant conduct of five of these students during the action at the mouth of the Yalu river wherein one lost his life, and Minister Denby says it affords him pleasure to report the distinguished bravery and gallantry displayed by some of these students. Two of them were in the Sheffield scientific school at North Haven and served in the northern squadron. He has been brevetted a commander and a red button in the northern squadron.
